PRODUCTION GUIDELINES

For print applications such as printing on paper or other substrates, refer to the PMS or CMYK values for color. Colors will look best when using spot PMS inks.

Due to variations in color handling by output method/equipment, pre-production color proofing is recommended.

For digital use such as websites, apps, videos, or on-screen presentations, refer to the HEX or RGB values.

Color will vary across monitors and output devices. Colors set up for 4-color process, RGB, or PMS may render differently on screen.

Make sure the color format is correct for the production method. Do not use CMYK or PMS files for digital use, or RGB files for print use.

Always manually set up and use the formulas provided in this style guide rather than rely on an app's automated color conversion, which may be inconsistent or different across apps.
